

Abstract of the Disclosure

An interactive television program guide is provided in which targeted advertisements may be displayed on program guide screens and actions may be taken in the program guide based on which program guide function buttons and non-programming options are selected by the user. Advertisements may contain text, graphics, and video. Advertisements may also be selectable.